REPORT.

State of New Jersey,
Office of the Quartermaster-General,
Trenton, October 31, 1896.

To the Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

Pursuant to law, I have the honor to submit the following report of the principal operations ot this department for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1896:

The military supplies of the State, consisting of ordnance and ordnance stores, camp and garrison equipage, surgical instruments and Quartermaster's stores are ample in quantity, and kept in a condition of efficiency ready for immediate use in case of emergency. Company commandants are required by law to report annually the actual situation, condition and number of arms and accoutrements, the property of the State, in their possession. Such as are reported defective in any way are ordered returned to the State Arsenal for such cleaning and repairs as may be necessary. The returns made for the past year show the arms to be in their average fair condition, fully adequate in point of general efficiency to meet the necessities of actual service, should the assistance of the uniformed militia at any time be unhappily needed for the suppression of riot or disorder within the borders of our State.

With the exception of another division added to the Battalion of the East, Naval Reserve, there have been no changes in the uniformed organizations of the militia during the year.

The National Guard, as at present constituted, consists of sixty (60) companies of infantry, two (2) troops of cavalry, two (2) Gatling gun companies, and a hospital and ambulance corps. Under the law approved February 12, 1895, the organization known as the Naval Reserve of New Jesey came into existence, consisting at present of six divisions equal to as many companies of the National Guard. The uniforming, arming and equipping, providing camp and garrison equipage, ship and Quartermaster's stores, transportation, subsistence, etc., for encampments, naval reviews, parades, battalion drills and inspections for this large body is the particular duty of this department, and involves considerable thought and much labor throughout the entire year. Notwithstanding the increased activity of this department, owing to the augmentation of the uniformed militia, no addition has been made to the clerical assistance in this office or the number of employes at the State Arsenal since 1876, as the allowance then fixed by law for compensation has never been changed, and is not sufficient to warrant any accession to the present force.

ENCAMPMENT.

The Second Brigade, National Guard, consisting of the Third, Sixth and Seventh Regiments, Infantry, Second Troop, Cavalry, Gatling Gun Company B and the Hospital and Ambulance Corps, under command of Brigadier and Brevet Major-General William J. Sewell, encamped at Sea Girt from July 18 to 25, 1896, receiving pay for six days.

The expenses were as follows:

Construction and taking down camp	$1,491 50
Transportation	4,108 24
Subsistence	5,667 93
Cooks, waiters, laundresses, etc.,	656 56
Freight and expressage	298 08

Quartermaster-General's Department	352 50

STATE CAMP GROUNDS.

The most important addition to the permanent structures at the Camp Grounds since last year is the commodious and beautiful frame building for messing the troops, from designs by Architect Wentworth, of Paterson. It has comfortable seating capacity for twelve hundred men, and is fitted up with arrangements of the latest approved kinds for cooking and serving the food. Another improvement is the new mess hall at brigade headquarters, of the same general design of architecture

Cost, (including new mess hall for brigade headquarters), $9,527.73.

Paid as follows:

Balance of appropriation of May 15, 1894	$3,779 39
From accumulated receipts of this Department from sales, settlements of officers' accounts, etc	5,748 34
	$9,527 73

The appearance of the Camp Grounds has been further improved by a new and permanent fence of galvanized iron rails, and neatly painted chestnut posts along its northern and western boundaries.
